

IG regular correspondent Andrew Don is the Federation of Wholesale Distributors' Journalist of the Year. He was presented the award by David Curry MP (left). FWD director-general said the award recognised "accuracy, political awareness and objectivity." Andrew Don made his mark particularly with the series of articles in IG which first brought to the attention of the trade the date-coding menace. Other award winners included Chris Dale, licensed trade director of Today's; Peter Miller, director of buying, Booker C&C and Steven Ainger, wholesale director, First Choice C&C.

Independent Grocer Dec 11 1992